AMUSEMENTS.

WHEN WE WERE TWENTY-ONE, -TONIGHT.

-"When We Were Twenty-One" is a love story pure and simple and is told in a straight-forward, homely way. It is a story of how Dick Carewe and his comrades rear and guide the only son of a deceased chum; how they guard and save him from the pitfalls and snares thet lie in the path of life at twenty-one. It is a story of hearts bound together by ties of friendship that nothing can break, and of how the comrades save their ward from the results of his foolish impetuosity. It also tells how a great and abiding love comes to Dick all in return for his willing self-sacrifice for the girl he loves and who, he thinks, loves his ward. This play is undoubtedly the greatest of modern times and will be presented by a superb company of artists at the Grand to-night. It was one of the biggest hits of last season in this city. "MCCARTHY'S MISHAPS."

-On next Menday evening, at the Grand Cpera House, comes the originators of Irish farce, Ferguson and Mack, in their new 1903 edition of the funniest of all musical farces, "McCarthy's Mishaps," re-written and brought up to date, introducing all the latest songs, dances and burlesque acts, giving two and a half hours of nothing but music and fun. They carry twenty people of dramatic and vaudeville headliners, thus guaranteeing you an evening of enjoyment. Specialties are interspersed throughout the three acts, and if you enjoy an evening of music and fun, don't fail to visit the Grand Opera House on next Monday evening.

Prices: Dress circle, 75; parquette, 50; balcony, 35; gallery, 25. Seats at Borland's Saturday morning.

WANT CASH PAYMENT.

Germany Ignores Her Previous Agreement.

Great Britain and Italy Have Renounced Any Responsibility For the Action of Germany and Expressed Their Regret.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Germany has Ignored her previous agreement made with Minister Bowen by Count von Quadt-Wyradt Izny, her charge d'affaires, and has insisted on a cash payment of $340,000 or a lien on the customs receipts of one of the Venezuelan. ports until this amount is paid. This information was communicated to Minister Bowen Wednesday night by Baron Speck von Sternburg, the German minister.

Mr. Bowen immediately informed the German minister that he refused to yield the receipts of any port prior to The Hague's decision, saying that that would be preferential treatment. As to the cash payment of $340,000 demanded, Bowen left that matter to the minister to determine, saying to him that if Germany can afford to make concessions that it does not stand by agreements signed by its duly accredited diplomats, he (Bowen), is willing that they shall receive on the day the protocol is signed the total amount asked in the original ultimatum. The response has been cabled to the German foreign office.

Great Britain and Italy have renounced any responsibility for the action of Germany and expressed their regret. Through their representatives they have informed Bowen that they will stand by all agreements they have made with him and will not be influenced by the action of Germany. Both the British and Italian protocols provide for a cash payment of £5,500 and for the submission of the question of preferential treatment to The Hague. They contain recommendations for the removal of all previous treaties of amity and commerce and the Italian claims which already have been adjudicated without further arbitration after her commission has arbitrated the other claims.

With the exception of the demand for an increased cash payment, the protocol of Germany in all essential respects will conform to that of Great Britain, but will be somewhat more concise. All these protocols, it is understood, will provide for the imanediate return of all vessels seized by the blockading squadron.

THE OLYMPIAN GAMES.

They Will Be Held in St. Louis In stead of Chicago.

St. Louis, Feb. 12.—"Everything settled. You have Olympic games," is the wording of a cable dispatch received Wednesday from Michael La Grave, World's fair commissioner at Paris, by the Louisiana Purchase exposition officials. The meaning of the message is that the Olympic games, which were originally intended to be held in Chiago in 1904 will be held in St. Louis during the World's fair, the international committee having now so decided.

A special committee was appointed by President Francis some time ago to take up the question of securing the Olympic games carnival for St. Louis. A number of meetings were held with the Chicago men in charge of the games. In furtherance of the project, the Athletic union, of St. Louis, sent a special committee to New York to confer with the main body of the Amateur Athletic union in relatino to securing the American athletic events in 1904 for St. Louis. Through the aid of A. C. Spaulding, of Chicago, and others identified in the affair, decision was made favorable to St. Louis, though dependent upon the ultimate decision of the international committee on the Olympic games, to which the whole question was finally referred.

The World's fair managers say that gratifying feature of the situation has been the attitude of the Chicago committee, which has manifested the utmost friendship toward St. Louis in the undertaking.

FIRE IN AN ARSENAL.

Principal Issue Storehouse at Rock Island, Ill., Destroyed.

Davenport, Ia., Feb. 12.-The principal issue storehouse of the United States arsenal at Rock Island, Ill. was destroyed Wednesday night by fire. The flames in the great government institution endangered property worth many times the amount lost. The fire was under control at midnight, when Maj. Blunt, the commandant, estimated the loss at $2,000,000. There were no casualties so far as known.

The Rock Island arsenal is the largest in the United States, comprising ten immense buildings and covering 30 acres of ground. It represents an expenditure of $12,000,000.

The Madina, With Party of Excursionists, Went on a Reef.

There Was Considerable Alarm Among the Passengers When the Vessel Struck the Rocks, But No Panic Prevailed.

Hamilton, Bermuda, Feb. 11.-The Quebec Steamship Co.'s steamer Madina, Capt. Fraser, which sailed from New York last Saturday with a party of excursionists for a special cruise around the Caribbean islands, went ashore on the reef off this island at 3 o'clock Tuesday morning. The ship is a total loss, but all on board were rescued and brought safely to land after a perilous trip in life boats from the wreck to a tug standing a mile off. The mails and the passengers' baggage also were saved. According to statements made by those on board, the Madina was threading her way in the night through the narrow channel between the coral reefs, which leads to Hamilton harbor, when she struck a reef, one and a half miles northeast of North Rock. No explicit explanation is yet forthcoming as to how the vessel went on the rocks, and the only information obtainable from the officers is that the light which indicates the channel for some reason could not

All the passengers were in their bunks when the Madina struck the rocks, but the shock of the impact wakened them and they rushed on deck, the majority of them without attempting to dress. Considerable alarm, though not a panic, prevailed among the passengers, when they found that the vessel was hard on the rocks, but the officers went among them and calmed them, although a number went below again to seek their clothing. A part of the crew did not share the coolness of the officers but the latter soon restored order among the troublesome seamen.

Signals of distress were sent up and the passengers passed an anxious time during the latter part of the night. The Madina listed heavily after a time and when morning broke lay broadside to the wind. The passengers were huddled together on the hurricane deck and the sea breaking over the steamer drenched them to the skin. As soon as the news of the wreck became known here government and other tugs proceeded to the scene to endeavor to render assistance.

FIFTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

Second Session.

Washington, Feb. 9.-Senate-The senate Saturday passed the following bills: Authorizing the promotion of Maj. William Crawford Gorgas, sur-Authorizing the promotion of geon in the United States army; for the relief of Capt. Joseph M. Simms, of the United States revenue cutter service; authorizing the construction of monuments on the Gettysburg battle field, and granting a pension of $75 each to the widows of Gens. Siegel and Negley. House-By a unanimous vote-republicans, democrats and all others voting for it to a man-the Littlefield and a half Wednesday, the senate, in publicity bill to regulate corporations and interstate commerce, passed the house. The poll stood 245 for and none against the measure, a most unusual circumstance. The democrats offered amendment after amendment, but their efforts to modify the bill and strengthen it, according to their own ideas, failed signally, the republicans being determined to put it through in the frame it came from the committee on judiciary. The bill in brief is as follows: Corporations "hereafter organized" must file returns with the interstate commerce commission for publication. Corporations failing to file public reports will be restrained from engaging in interstate commerce. Penalties are prescribed for false returns. The interstate commerce commission may demand an accounting from corporations now in existence. Corporations that offer rebates will be denied the instrumentalities of interstate commerce. Refusal to testify before the commission is punishable with a 5,000 fine.

Washington, Feb. 10.-Senate-In the senate Monday Mr. Carmack spoke on the Rawlins resolution calling on the secretary of war for certain courtsmartial.

House-The house spent the entire day on two District of Columbia bills, one to authorize the government to advance $6,000,000 to the district and the other to conference report on the union station bill. The former was defeated and the latter sent back to conference after a motion to recede from the amendment of the house to cut down the appropriation for the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio rail roads from $1,500,000 to $1,000,000 had been voted down.

Washington, Feb. 11.-Senate-The statehood bill again came up Tuesday and Mr. Morgan (Ala.) spoke on it for some time. In the course of his remarks he referred to bills regarding trusts which he said have been kept back and will be kept back until it is too late for discussion regarding them. Mr. Hanna presented the conference report on the department of commerce bill, a final vote on it being deferred until Wednesday in order that it might be printed. The conference report on the general staff bill was agreed to. A number of other bills were passed. House-The house adopted the conference report on the department of commerce bill by a vote of 251 to 10. One republican (Mr. Littlefield) and nine democrats voted against this action. Several democrats took the position that the "Nelson amendment to the bureau of corporations was a weak and ineffectual attempt to provide the machinery for corporation publicity. Mr. Mann (Ill.), on behalf of the republicans, contended on the contrary that it was a better measure of publicity than had been presented in any other bill. The remainder of the day was devoted to the sundry civil appropriation bill. Mr. Gannon, chairman of the appropriations committee, gave notice that at the proper time he would move two amendments, one to provide for the purchase of a site and the erection of a three-story 400 room office building for members, to be connected with the capitol by a subway and to cost $3,800,000; and the other an appropriation of $2,500,000 to carry out the original plans for beautifying and enlarging the main wing of the capitol. The notable feature of the general debate on the bill was a speech by Mr. De Armond (Mo.) on the Hanna resolution to pension ex-slaves. He spoke in a sarcastic vein, but the subject assumed a serious phase when Mr. Richardson (Tenn.) said that adventurers in the south were using the bill to impose on ignorant, credulous Negroes and called on Mr. Cannon to give as surance that the passage of such a measure was not contemplated. This assurance Mr. Cannon gave. Washington, Feb. 12.-Senate-Mr. Hanna called up the conference report on the department of commerce bill and it was agreed to without debate. The bill now goes to the president. Mr. Morgan almost immediately after the opening of the session resumed his remarks on the statehood bill, but branched off on the subject on the proposed treaty with Colombia. He referred to the concorda of Pope Pius IX., which constituted a part of the organic law of Colombia. He predicted a return of the hostilities between the old church party in Colombia and the liberal party. Mr. Depew spoke in opposition to the statehood bill. He did not conclude his speech. House-The house made fair progress with the sundry civil appropriation bill, covering 86 of the 150 pages of the bill. The amendments of which Mr. Cannon gave notice Tuesday for the completion of the east front of ed, points of order raised against them being overcome by the adoption of a special rule making them in order. By the terms of the amendments $500. 000 is appropriated for work on the main building of the capitol and a limit of $2,500,000 is fixed. For a site for a new office building $750,000 is appropriated, the cost of the building is to be $3,100,000.

Improved Coast Defense.

United States Senate Ratified the Boundary Convention.

There Was But Little Opposition Manifested-Greek Commercial Treaty Was Under Consideration, But Action Was Postponed.

Washington, Feb. 12.-In an executive session which lasted only an hour addition to confirming a large number of nominations, ratified the Alaskan boundary treaty and came near taking similar action on the commercial treaty with Greece, which was report ed by Senator Cullom Wednesday from the committee on foreign relations.

The Greek treaty was read through by the clerk and then Senator Cullom asked that the resolution of ratification be acted on, but Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, objected. He said that he desired an opportunity to examine the provisions in the treaty concerning consular trials. He explained that he had no objection to the general purport of the treaty, but said as the provision was read, it seemed to him to be loosely drawn and he wanted an opportunity to read it carefully before giving his assent to it. The principal purpose of the Greek treaty is the regulation of commerce between Greece and the United States. It contains full provision for the control of the consular service along the lines laid down in the recently negotiated Spanish treaty.

There was no delay in securing action on the Alaskan treaty, and very little opposition to it was manifested. Senator Teller said that he considered the Alaskan boundary so well determined as to make it not a matter of dispute. Therefore, while he would not delay it, he would not vote for it. Senator Mason made a few similar remarks, adding that he considered the proceedure proposed by the treaty non-American. The ayes and noes were not called, but there were several voices heard in the negative when an informal expression was called for. The ayes were so much more numerous, however, that the decision of the chair to the effect that ratification had prevailed was not challenged.

The soft blush of welcome which was dawning upon her cheek flamed into angry scarlet, which spread and deepened till brow and ears and throat were all ablaze. Hot tears streamed from her eyes. She snatched away her hand, and fled homeward, nor by his utmost effort was he able to overtake her.

So he wandered along the village streets, bewildered and disconsolate, until the perversity of fate, and his own stupid blundering, still again, for the third time that day, betrayed him. It was not usual to offer flowers for sale in Meadowville, but betentatiously displayed in the front window of one of the stores. It was now evening, and nothing remained except a few pink carnations; but it suddenly occurred to the woe-begone Drixie that it might be a good idea to send these as a peace offering to impressed him. So he bought the flowers at a price that was sheer robbery on the dealer's part, and subsidized the clerk to deliver them. The months that followed were the most miserable that Drixie had ever known. He felt abominably ill used. He abjured the society of all women, dark or light, but found small comfort in it. He heard of Stella's departure without a pang; but at the ought of Jennie, and how he had forever forfeited her love and even her friendship, he felt as if his heart would break. So he tried to forget his woes in close application to study -he was pretending to read lawand in long and reckless bicycle rides across the country. If he could keep his heart pumping hard enough it didn't seem to ache so cruelly. One evening he was coasting, in the heedless fashion that had become habitual with him, down the steep grade that winds like a corkscrew around the precipitous sides of Sugarloaf Hill. On the left was a perpendicular cutting; on the right was a sheer drop of several feet and below it a rugged slope obstructed by FURNITURE, CARPETS. trees and stumps. Suddenly, about half way down, he perceived that the repairers had been at work on the side of the road next the cutting, and had set up a temporary fence to prevent vehicles from driving into an excavation which they had opened there, leaving a narrow track on the outer edge. And in the middle of this track, riding toward him with uncertain movements and obvious lack of confidence, he saw another cyclist-it was a girl-it was Jennie Cross. All this flashed before him in a moment. His speed was beyond control; there was not an instant for deliberation-scarcely time to act. He gave a sharp wrench to the right, his wheel leaped from the verge, he felt himself hurled through the air like a sling-stone-then a stunning concussion; and all was dark and si

A few weeks later the young man was lying on a cot in a darkened room, slowly convalescing. Jennie had just been allowed to enter for the first-time since the accident. Size was holding his hand; her eyes were cast down in deep humility; her face was flushed, but sweetly resolute.

"Drixie," she said, in a voice that hardly broke the silence, "Drixie, dear, it was simply horrid of you to ask me that way—but I do."

British Honduras Mountains. The Coxcomb mountains of British Honduras, to some extent an unknown part of the famous Mahegany coast, are undergoing a process of christening which will identify them for all times with the beginning of the twentieth century. One range has just been named the Queen Alexandra mountains, another range takes the name of the Prince of Wales, and a 4,000-foot peak has been named Mt. Joseph Chamberlain.

Chalmers pinned it to the wall and stood off and admired it with the rapt expression of an art devotee lost in contemplation of a newly-discovered Raphael.

"Print it in red," he said to the foreman. "Run it clear across the page. Below we will string a solid row of six half-tone portraits of the missing millionaires.'

Chalmers was a busy man during the two days following the interview with Miss Carmody. He detailed ten of his men to exclusive work on the mystery and at considerable expense secured 15 others from rival New York papers. Chicago was drawn on for five reporters, and he induced ten from other cities to join his newspaper detective force. This gave him a staff of 40 men.

John L. Stevens, of Chicago, was the most famous police and detective reporter of the country, and, after an interview with Mr. Chalmers, was appointed chief-of-staff under the direct supervision of the managing

"I have no theory about this mystery, Jack," said Chalmers, after they had discussed the case in all its details. "I have certain vague suspicions, but they are not founded on facts, and they may be dismissed from consideration."

"You had a paragraph about him yesterday," said Stevens. "He is to do with it. I have sent a man to

Three were in and were rendered on the first of the dainty white envelopes and sealed month. It was late in the afternoon with wax. Chaimers glanged at them and threw them back on the floor. Mr. Benson nodded an affirmative, turned on his heel and vanished. Mr. Chalmers examined the slips with much interest. The first one was from a furniture house. It was

Chalmers studied these items long and earnestly. "Looks as if Hestor had started a hotel or boarding house," reflected the managing editor. "A 12-room boarding house. That is not the kind of furniture he would put up in a New York house. He has his own bachelor apartment. I have been in it scores of times. It is full of furniture, and mighty fine furniture."

He read and reread the furniture bill. Then he leaned back in his chair and invoked the resources of a memory trained to its work and responsive as the muscles of an athlete or the fingers of a virtuoso.

"It is about a year," he reflected, 'since Hestor invited Bob Van Horne, Blake and myself to dinner at the Waldorf, and after dinner we went to his apartment. Bob asked him where it was, and he shut up like a clam."

Chalmers reflected. "He said 'palm trees' all right. Seems to me as if he said something about alligators.

Chalmers examined the other statements. They were bills of various kinds-for stocks of canned goods, smoked meats, condensed milk and the multitudinous articles which would be used by a well equipped camping party. They were dated between the 25th and 29th of April, when he was through with this work.

About 11 o'clock that night Chalmers received a telegram from Mr. cago. Mr. Seymour had been detailed cago record of L. Sylvester Vincent. Seymour was first heard of in the following bulletin, filed in Chicago at eight o'clock that night.

Honest Effort That Was Not Sufficiently Appreciated to Encourage a Renewal.

The old saying that "praise to the face is open disgrace" is still firmly believed by some people. A young woman who was brought up by her New England grandmother, a notable housekeeper and example of thrift, says that the adage was a household guide in her family, relates an

One day her grandmother went off to pay a visit and the ambitious girl of 16 scrubbed and polished, swept and dusted until it seemed as if there was nothing left to do. Her heart beat high with the hope of a word of commendation as she sat in the kitchen doorway, waiting for her

When the old lady arrived she ooked about her with keen eyes, but there seemed no chance for criticism, until, stooping down under the kitchen table, which stood near the open door, she saw that the south wind had wafted a bit of fluff from

With eyes that would twinkle in spite of herself, she pointed an aceusing finger at this evidence of carelessness, and said, soberly:

"Janet, my dear, I see there's a feather in the kitchen. It's high time I came home!"

EATING OF TURKEYS.

Illustrative Instances of the High Esteem in Which They Have Been Held by Epicures.

The first turkey eaten in France is said to have been served at the wedding banquet of Charles IX. The Mexican birds were taken to Europe and then brought again to America as a domestic bird. The journals of many of the explorers like Capt. John Smith record the excellent qualities of the wild turkey. They were plentiful from Canada south even to the sea coast. One traveler writes on the "great store of the wild kind of turkeys, which remain about the house as tame as ours in England."

The famous French authority, Brillat Savarin, who visited this country more than 100 years ago, left an account of his experience in hunting wild turkeys. On his return from this expedition some famous man was telling him stories of Washington. The Frenchman's attention wandered, but he by a marked effort recovered himeslf and said: "I beg a thousand pardons, but I was thinking how to dress my wild turkey." Another story of Savarin was told by Talleyrand. Passing through Sens on the way to Lyons he sent for the cook, according to his custom, and asked what he could have for dinner. The report was discouraging, for although four turkeys were roasting in the kitchen they were all for one guest. "I should like to meet the man who orders four turkeys for his own eating," said Savarin, and he went to pay his respects to the stranger, who turned out to be his own

"What, you rogue, four turkeys, all for yourself?"

"Yes, sir; you know whenever I dine with you, you eat up the whole of les-sots-les-laissent," the tidbit known as the oyster. "I was resolved to enjoy myself for once in my life, and here I am, ready to begin, although I did not expect the honor of your company."

There is an old story of an epicure who said: "We have just been dining on a superb turkey, tender and delicate; we left nothing but the bones." Being asked how many were included in the "we" he replied: 'Two; the turkey and myself."

An Englishman in Paris asked Franklin why his countrymen selected a stupid, uneatable eagle as their emblem when they had supplied them with such a noble bird as the turkey.

It is estimated that 6,000,060 turkeys are required to furnish the Thanksgiving dinner tables each year, says the American Kitchen Magazine. That means over 50,000,000 pounds of meat, worth $7,500,000. Of this sum the smallest state, Rhode Island, receives the largest share.

TEACHING WEATHER SIGNS

Unique Occupation by Which an Old Retired Seaman Makes His Living.

This is an era of odd callings. If a man have an accurate knowledge of any particular subject of daily life, he need never be at a loss to make a living. The writer once made the acquaintance of an aged first mate on an Atlantic liner, and carefully noted in a diary his quaint say. ings concerning the weather, and his cleverness in turning the many phases of ocean life into matters of interest, says the New York Post. One day lately, while strolling about the city, he saw a sign which read:

SOCIETY WEATHER BUREAU. NEPTUNIC KNICK KNACKS.

Entering the little shop, the eye was caught by a tangle of fishnets and shells, which covered the walls; old sails, looped up with the aid of shell draperies, curtained off the owner in a tiny workshop; emerging therefrom to show his wares, he proved to be the first mate. News and bits of gossip were exchanged: "I'm better off at this," he said; "I'm teaching society people the weather signs; they call it mystic thought, or something like that; but it doesn't worry me, so long as it pays. I have a little series of lesson cards (he handed one to the caller), more like gimeracks than serious teaching-but they're correct."

The card contained brief information something like this: "In planning for an outing, remember that if the temperature falls suddenly, there's a storm coming from the south; if it rises, it's from the north. Watch the breeze; it blows from good weather to storm. Cirrus clouds float from a storm to sunshine. When they seem to be running away from each other in the north or toward northeast, there'll be rain during the day. When the wind changes, it makes its shifts with the sun, from left to right. When the sun goes down rosy, fine weather; rusty-red, storm; pink sky in the morning, bad weather; dovegray sky, fair weather."

"I charge 50 cents a half-hour for lessons," continued the old salt, "and I use charts and instruments, just as they do on shipboard. They seem to enjoy it, and learn quickly.

"Point Tresse" Lace. "Point tresse" is a very rare kind of lace made of human hair. Its production was confined to the early part of the sixteenth century. Ancient and Modern Ideas on the Subject. Time and Disease the Effacing Agents of Beauty. What Has Science Done to Restore the Lily and the Rose?

Socrates called beauty a short-lived | tyranny, Plato a privilege of nature, Theocritus a delightful prejudice, Theophrastus a silent cheat, Carneades a solitary kingdom, Homer a glorious gift of nature, Ovid a favor of the gods. Aristotle affirmed that beauty was better than all the letters of recommendation in the world, and yet none of these distinguished authorities has left us even a hint of how beauty is to be perpetuated, or the ravages of age and disease defied. Time soon blends the lily and the rose into the pallor of age, disease dots the fair face with cutaneous disfigurations and crimsons the Roman nose with unsightly flushes, moth, if not rust, corrupts the glory of eyes, teeth, and lips yet beautiful by defacing the complexion, and fills the sensitive soul with agony unspeakable. If such be the unhappy condition of one afflicted with slight skin blemishes, what must be the feelings of those in whom torturing humors have for years run riot, covering the skin with scales and sores and charging the blood with poisonous elements to become a part of the system until death? It is vain to attempt to portray such suffering. Death in many cases might be considered a blessing. The blood and fluids seem to be impregnated with a flery element which, when discharged through the pores upon the surface of the body, inflames and burns until, in his efforts for relief, the patient tears the skin with his nails, and not until the blood flows does sufficient relief come to cause him

Thus do complexional defects merge into torturing disease, and piqued vanity give place to real suffering. little wart on the nose or cheek grows to the all-devouring lupus, a patch of tetter on the palm of the hand or on the limbs suddenly envelops the body in its fiery embrace, a bruise on the leg expands into a gnawing ulcer, which reaches out its fangs to the sufferer's heart in every paroxysm of pain, a small kernel in the neck multiplies into a dozen, which eat away the vitality, great pearl-like scales grow from little rash-like inflammations in such abundance as to pass credulity; and so on may we depict the sufferings to which poor human nature is subject, all of which involve great mental distress because of personal disfigurations.

If there were not another external disease known, eczema alone would be a sufficient infliction on mankind. It pervades all classes, and descends impartially through generations. While some are constantly enveloped in it, others have it confined to small natches in the ears, on the scalp, on the breast, on the palms of the hands, on the limbs, etc., but everywhere its distinctive feature is a small watery blister, which discharges an acrid fluid. causing heat, inflammation, and intense itching. Ring-worm, tetter, scalled head, dandruff, belong to this scaly and itching order of diseases. Psoriasis, our modern leprosy, with its mother-of-pearl scale, situated on a reddened base, which bleeds upon the removal of the scale, is to be dreaded and avoided, as of old. Impetigo, barber's itch, erysipelas, and a score of minor disorders make up in part the catalogue of external diseases of the skin. Thus far we have made no allusion to those afflictions which are manifestly impurities of the blood, viz.: swelling of the glands of the throat, ulcers on the neck and limbs, tumors, abscesses, and mercurial poisons, with loss of hair, because the whole list can be comprehended in the one word scrofula.

It is in the treatment of torturing, disfiguring humors and affections of the skin, sealp, and blood, with loss of hair, that the Cuticura remedies have achieved their greatest success. Original in composition, scientifically compounded, absolutely pure, unchangeable in any climate, always ready, and agreeable to the most delicate and sensitive, they present to young and old the most successful caratives of modern times. This will be considered strong language by those acquainted with the character and obstinacy of blood and skin humors but it is justified by innumerable successes where all the remedies and methods in vogue have failed to cure, and, in many cases, to relieve, even.

The Cuticura treatment is at once agreeable, speedy, economical, and comprehensive. Bathe the affected parts freely with hot water and Cuticura soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle. Dry. without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment to allay itching, irritation, and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, take Cuticura Resolvent, to cool and cleanse the blood. This treatment affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of eczema and other itching, burning, and scaly humors, and points to a speedy, permanent, and economical cure of torturing, disfiguring humors, eczemas, rashes, and inflammations, from infancy to age, when all other remedies and the best physicians fail. The remedies constituting the Cuticura system will repay an individual scrutiny of their remarkable properties.

Cuticura Soap contains in a modified form the medicinal properties of Cuticura Ointment, the great skin cure and purest and sweetest of emollients, combined with the most delicate and refreshing of flower odors. It purifies and invigorates the pores of the skin, and imparts activity to the oil glands and tubes, thus furnishing an outlet for unwholesome matter, which if retained would cause pimples, blackheads, rashes, oily, mothy skin, and other complexional disfigurations, as well as scalp affections and irritations. falling hair, and baby rashes. Its gentle and continuous action on the natural lubricators of the skin keeps the latter transparent, soft, flexible, and healthy. Hence its constant use, assisted by an occasional use of Cuticura Ointment, realizes the fairest complexion, the softest, whitest hands, and the most luxuriant, glossy hair within the domain of the most advanced scientific knowledge to supply.

Cuticura Ointment is the most successful external curative for torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, in proof of which a single anoming with it, preceded by a hot bath with Cultura Soap, and followed in the severer cases by a full dose of Cuticura Resolvent, is sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of itching, burning, and scaly humors, permit rest and sleep, and point to a speedy cure when all other remedies fail. It is especially so in the treatment of infants and children, cleansing, soothing, and healing the most distressing of infantile humors, and preserving, purifying, and beautifying the skin, scalp, and Cuticura Ointment possesses, at the same time, the charm of satisfying the simple wants of the toilet of all ages, in caring for the skin, scalp, hair, and hands far more effectually, agreeably, and -economically than the most expensive of toilet emollients. while free from every ingredient of a doubtful or dangerous character. Its "One Night Treatment of the Hands," or "Single Treatment of the Hair," or use after athletics, cycling, golf, tennis, riding, sparring, or any sport, each in connection with the use of Cuticura Soap, is sufficient evidence of this.

Of all remedies for the purification of the blood and circulating fluids, none approaches in specific medical action Cuticura Resolvent. It neutralizes and resolves away (hence its name) scrofulous, inherited, and other humors in the blood, which give rise to swellings of the glands, pains in the bones, and torturing, disfiguring eruptions of the skin and scalp, with loss of hair. Cuticura Resolvent extends its purifying influence by means of the pores to the surface of the skin, allaying irritation, inflammation, itching, and burning, and soothing and healing. Hence its success in the treatment of distressing humors of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, which fail to be permanently cured by external remedies alone.

The grandest testimonial that can be offered Cuticura remedies is their world-wide sale, due to the personal recommendations of those who have used them. It is difficult to realize the mighty growth of the business done under this name. From a small beginning in the simplest form, against prejudice and opposition, against monied hosts, countless rivals, and trade indifference. Cuticura remedies have become the greatest curatives of their time, and, in fact, of all time, for nowhere in the history of medicine is to be found another approaching them in popularity and sale. In every clime and with every people they have met with the same reception. The confines of the earth are the only limits to their growth. They have conquered the world.

To the test of popular judgment all things mundane must finally come. The civilized world has rendered its verdict in favor of Cuticura.

THREE SHORT TALES.

Modern Children Who Argan Touch With the Ways of the World.

A writer in the Outlook, after lavishing pity on the little children of the rich, who by modern educational methods, he avers, are made blase before they reach their teens, continues:

Listen, you who are murmuring "old fogy" under your breath - listen to three short but pregnant tales:

Past the spectator's window one morning loitered two chubby little lads, their arms around each other's neck. The spectator thought to himself what a pretty picture of childish unsophistication they made. When they spoke, however, he caught his breath. "I won $3 yesterday," remarked the younger of the two, who may possibly have been eight. "Honest? How?" demanded the other, big eyed. "Oh, my father and I bet on a race, and my horse won," was the nonchalant reply.

Before the spectator had fairly recovered from the staggering effect of this speech a group of little girls drew up before the house. One of the littlest of them was in difficulties with her hair, which had been dressed in some occult feminine fashion beyond the spectator's power to describe and had slipped its ribbon. As an older girl struggled to reduce it to order she said remonstratingly: "What makes you try to wear it this way, Gladys? It's much too short." The little tot turned on her a withering glance. "It's the fashion!" she exclaimed, with crushing finality.

To these disclosures of unblinking sophistication may be added the tale of a neighbor whose little boy is just six. He had hoped to keep the child unconscious that he is the heir of millions simplicity. And yet the other night, as he climbed on his father's knee for a good night kiss, he electrified the father you worth?"

From February 15th until April 30th, the Burlington makes greatly reduced one-way rates for settlers going to California, Montana, Big Horn Basin, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, Puget Sound Country and British Columbia. Generally speaking, the reduction is from 25 to 40 per cent.

Here Is One That Must Be Made Good.

We bought several thousand dollars' worth of Clothing the latter part of December. We have sold some of the Clothing, but not enough to give us room for our Spring stock; besides that, we can't afford to keep our money tied up in it, and the goods getting old, which is against our rule of business to carry goods over from one season to another; so we have decided to lose a few hundred dollars by selling Clothing for the next thirty days below cost. We are sure there will not be many suits left in our house after this thirtydays' sale. All we want is to sell the first few suits for the community to see the quality of them and prices paid for them. We will mention a few of the prices below. Come and be convinced that we back our advertisements with our goods.
